AFTER a frustrating summer when a leg injury kept him out of track competition, Graham Williamson has shown his fightback to fitness is proceeding right on target. On Saturday he recorded the fastest time of the day with a run of 21min 57sec for the five-

Aberdeen AAC won the team race with a time of 92min 16sec, just 11 seconds ahead of Spango Valley AC, with Cambuslang Harriers third in 93min 6sec.

Edinburgh University won the Scottish Universities relay championship after passing Glasgow University on the final lap to score a 200-yard victory, with Dundee University in third position.
