January 26th

Colin Hume & Lawrie Spence win District titles

A THIN layer of snow made conditions quite difficult underfoot for the Eastern Champs at Livingston, but a last minute re-routing of the course avoided some very icy patches, though provided a number of nasty mole hills for tired athletes to trip over at the finish.

In the minor events, the chief highlights were another runaway victory for Edinburgh Southern's Tom Hanlon in the Youths' race, winning by 90 seconds and leading his club to team victory, whilst, in the Junior race, university athletes filled the first three places — two from Dundee and one from Edinburgh.

Scottish News & Results

The main event provided a fascinating spectacle of 'cat and mouse' between Colin Hume and Fraser Clyne for three and a half of the four laps race; Clyne seeming to go better on the flat parts of the course, with Hume constantly surging up the hilly parts of the slippery track. At half distance (20:30) they were locked together ahead of Gordon Mitchell, secure in third place, and Terry Mitchell, the reigning champion, who was having a great battle with Graham Laing and Peter Faulds. With just over a mile to go, Hume put in that extra burst that seemed to create daylight between him and Clyne, and within the space of a few hundred metres the gap had become ten metres, and it was clear that Clyne had given up the fight for the title. Hume went on to win easily in 41:33, with Clyne 24 seconds behind and Gordon Mitchell coming home in third place to lead Falkirk Victoria to a well deserved victory.

THIS YEAR'S Western Champs, held over a frost-bound Bellshill course with occasional treacherous icy patches, attracted a record entry of 1080 competitors for the five different age-groups, of whom 598 were entered for the Senior race. Scottish Junior champion, Robert Quinn, was the only athlete to retain his title, while Cambuslang held on to the Junior and Senior team titles.

The Senior 7½M race saw the experienced international, Lawrie Spence, win back the title he last held in 1982 while then competing for Shettleston. Spence is currently training 80 miles a week, laced with quality fartlek sessions, in his build up to the Scottish and World Cross Country Championships. The Greenock runner has
